

Samantha Swindler Named Volunteer of the Year

City Council recently selected Samantha Swindler as the 2023 Volunteer of the Year. Samantha has been volunteering with the city since 2019. As a member and chair of the Milwaukie Arts Committee, Samantha has led several large-scale events and projects. For the past several years, she has organized and led the successful Porchfest concert series, which will continue this year on July 12, 19 and 26.

“Porchfest is a citywide block party that creates opportunities for everyone to share and celebrate Milwaukie’s artistic talents in an easily accessible way.” Samantha said about the continued success of Porchfest.

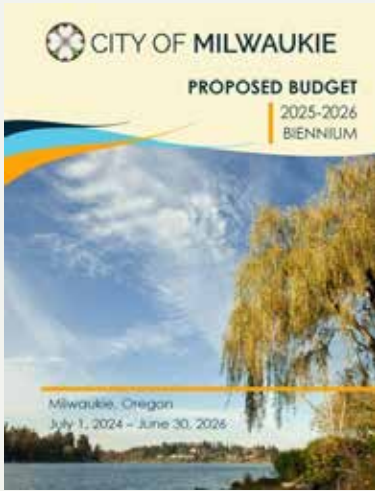

At the start of the year, she saw her longtime passion to create a New Year's Eve event in Milwaukie come to life with Bing in the New Year, which also included the installation of a permanent cherry along with a history about the Bing cherry. Through the Arts Committee, she also coordinated other art-based activities in partnership with the city’s signature events, including community mural and piano paintings, crafts, DIY umbrella kits and more. In addition to the Arts Committee, Samantha volunteers extensively with the Hector Campbell Neighborhood District Association, regularly helping with neighborhood events, such as the annual Haunted Forest in Homewood Park and Adopt-A-Road clean-ups.

Samantha approaches volunteer work with optimism and confidence. She is undaunted from her goals despite the obstacles that pop up on her path. All of that, combined with her passion and can-do attitude, inspire those around her and helps ensure her endeavors are successful.

Other nominees for the 2023 Volunteer of the Year award included Robby Bricker-Voyles, Christi Cawood, Pam Denham, Terri Geier-Brindell, Heather Hobson, Charlotte Navarre, Stephanie Pino-Hess, Dennis Ward, and Steven Watkins. Thanks to each of the nominees for their dedicated volunteer service and to those who nominated them. To learn more about the award, contact Jason Wachs at wachs@milwaukieoregon.gov or 503.786.7568.

It's Budget Season!

As summer rolls in, the City of Milwaukie is also poised to roll into the next budget cycle. Milwaukie adopts a biennial budget, which means the budget city council is poised to adopt this month will run from July 1, 2024 through June 30, 2026.

A city's budget is more than just a table of dollars and cents. It's a critical policy document that spells out priorities, strategic trade-offs and planned investments for the two years ahead and beyond.

Last month, the city's Budget Committee—comprised of city council and community members—voted unanimously to approve the budget for adoption. City council will vote to adopt the budget during their June 4 regular session meeting. The complete budget document can be viewed at www.milwaukieoregon.gov/finance/budgets.

The 2025-2026 biennial budget comes on the heels of several years of unprecedented change that have reshaped Milwaukie's financial landscape and the services the community expects. The city is confident that the proposed budget will ensure Milwaukie remains in a healthy financial position throughout the next two years, while allowing us to institutionalize the progress made on current council goals and prepare for the challenges of tomorrow.

Porchfest Returns to Milwaukie on July 12, 19 & 26

The Milwaukie Arts Committee is gearing up for the fifth annual Milwaukie Porchfest concert series, happening the last three Fridays in July. Porchfest concerts and performances are held across Milwaukie—outside of homes, businesses and public spaces—from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. on July 12, 19 and 26. Already, about two dozen performances are on the Porchfest 2024 calendar and more are being added regularly. To find an up-to-date list of Porchfest locations, visit milwaukieporchfest.com. Anyone can perform during Porchfest. Past acts have included rock bands, folk duos, comedy routines, drag shows, sing-alongs, story times and improv. Performers are all volunteers, though tipping is highly encouraged. Thanks to local business sponsors, performers will receive a Porchfest canvas tote as a gift. If you would like to perform but don't have a porch, or if you have a porch, but aren't a performer, contact the Arts Committee. The Arts Committee will play matchmaker and connect performers and hosts. To sign up as a performer or porch host, or for more information about Porchfest, visit milwaukieporchfest.com.

Investment Takes Off in Milwaukie's Urban Renewal Area

City council, acting as the Milwaukie Redevelopment Commission (MRC) Board of Directors, will also vote to adopt the MRC budget for the next two years on June 4. The MRC oversees investments in Milwaukie's urban renewal area, which was established in 2016. Within the urban renewal area (see map), projects that enhance development, livability and economic development are funded through a mechanism called tax increment financing.

By late 2020, sufficient tax increment had accrued to justify the creation of a 5-year investment strategy. This biennial budget will see more than $6.5 million of investments in the URA as we implement the investment strategy known as the five-year action plan (adopted in June 2022). The action plan identifies infrastructure projects, downtown improvements, and the launch of exciting economic development programs for businesses, including storefront and tenant improvement grants.

For more information about tax increment financing, the Milwaukie Redevelopment Commission and urban renewal area, visit www.milwaukieoregon.gov/communitydevelopment/urban-renewal.

Made in Milwaukie

This month marks the opening of the Milwaukie Historical Society's newest exhibit, Made in Milwaukie: Our Local Industries and National Icons. The exhibit highlights some of the most impactful businesses that have called Milwaukie home. For those interested in learning more about life and industry in 19th century Milwaukie, the exhibit will feature information about the Fischer Pottery and Brickyard (located in the Island Station neighborhood), Standard Mill (located along Milwaukie Bay), and the local boat-making industry created by Lot Whitcomb (located along Milwaukie Bay). It also highlights the city's culinary history, including the Milwaukie Pastry Kitchen, Dave's Killer Bread and Mike's Drive-In. Additionally, the exhibit provides history about contemporary businesses, such as Dark Horse Comics, Milwaukie Lumber and Cha! Cha! Cha! A grand opening for this exhibit is hosted on Saturday, June 8 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the museum, 3737 SE Adams St.

Bulky Waste Collection on June 8 and 15

This year's curbside bulky waste collection event is Saturday, June 8 or June 15, depending on location. The event is meant to help residents dispose of items that don't fit into typical garbage carts and can't be sold or donated. Bulky waste day collections are limited to single-family residents within Milwaukie city limits with current solid waste services. To determine your property's pick-up date and hauler, visit the mapping tool at www.milwaukieoregon.gov/bulkywaste.

THINGS TO REMEMBER:

- City staff do not coordinate bulky waste day collections and cannot reschedule missed or partial pick-ups—residents must contact their hauler directly to notify them of issues.
- Contact your hauler for a current list of accepted items. A list of standard items is available on the city's website. This list is not exhaustive and haulers should be contacted directly for specific item acceptability.
- Items listed as unacceptable will not be collected.
- Items not prepared correctly will not be collected.
- Do not use weekly carts/bins—these are strictly for regularly scheduled collection days.
- Place all items curbside by 4 a.m. on collection day. Do not add items after 4 a.m.

Bulky waste collection is a lengthy process and takes a significant effort from haulers – please be patient as they work the day of the event. Depending on the volume of items, collection may take all day or into the evening. Haulers may also use multiple trucks to collect specific items.

Please keep in mind: Items collected during bulky waste days go to landfills, so be sure to recycle or donate items whenever possible.

City staff cannot answer questions related to missed pickups or accepted items, or schedule new pickups. It is important to contact your hauler directly for these issues:

- Waste Management – 1.800.808.5901
- Hoodview Disposal – 503.668.8300
- Clackamas Garbage – 503.656.9633

For other concerns and frequently asked questions, visit www.milwaukieoregon.gov/bulkywaste.

Fireworks Prohibited in Milwaukie City Limits

As a reminder, community members are encouraged to take note of a code change regarding fireworks. Last year, City Council passed ordinance 2225, which prohibits the sale, possession and use of fireworks in Milwaukie city limits. The maximum possible fine for a fireworks violation is $1,000. In the past, temporary bans have been placed on the use of fireworks when the risk of wildfires was high. After weighing their potential impacts to veterans, pets and wildlife, as well as the continuing fire hazards they pose to homes and other structures, especially during the drier summer months, City Council decided to make the ban permanent. Community members may notice fireworks stands are missing this summer as well. The new ordinance extends to them, as well as permanent stores and businesses, within city limits.

For those looking to celebrate Independence Day with fireworks, the city encourages community members to seek out public fireworks displays outside of the Milwaukie area. For more information about the new fireworks ordinance, visit www.milwaukieoregon.gov.

Emergency Kits: Food and Energy

Food and energy are among the two most important preparation needs. Many households already have shelf-stable food that can be used in an emergency. Canned foods can generally be stored safely for years without electricity. Crackers, protein bars and nut butters are also good options. It's worth including comfort foods in an emergency kit. After a major disaster, familiar treats can be a source of comfort. Military rations (i.e. MREs) and freeze-dried survival food can be good options as well, but are generally more expensive than shelf-stable goods. An average adult will need to consume 2,000-3,000 calories per day, a range which should be considered when planning for two weeks of self-reliance. Energy, for heating, cooking and light can be provided in a variety of ways. Barbecues, camp stoves and fire pits are good cooking options where available, but should not be used in enclosed spaces. Gas or diesel generators can provide an emergency source of electricity, but must also be kept in well-ventilated spaces to avoid dangerous exhaust fumes. Flashlights and lanterns are reliable light sources. Make sure to include extra batteries, stored in a waterproof container, if possible.

As with all emergency preparation, individual circumstances will determine what the best option is for each household. When planning for a disaster, make choices that make sense for your unique situation. For more information, visit www.milwaukieoregon.gov/emergencyprep.

Importance of Erosion Control Permits

The Clean Water Act, established in 1972, emerged as a response to escalating concerns about water pollution across the United States. It is a comprehensive framework for regulating the discharge of pollutants and aims to maintain the integrity of the country's water. Since construction activities have the potential to accelerate soil erosion 40,000 times above pre-construction rates, erosion control is one of the Clean Water Act's most critical components for Milwaukie's aquatic ecosystems.

In Milwaukie, an erosion control permit is required for businesses and individuals engaging in activities that disturb 500 square feet of soil. In most cases, erosion control permits require detailed erosion control plans that outline specific measures to take during these activities, including perimeter fencing, concrete wash stations and vegetation buffers to minimize soil displacement and sedimentation. Once the plan is approved, an initial inspection for erosion control measures allows projects to begin. Routine inspections and a final inspection are parts of the process to ensure erosion control measures are effectively implemented and maintained throughout the duration of the project. Failure to obtain or adhere to erosion control permit requirements can result in penalties, fines and project shutdowns. For more information, visit www.milwaukieoregon.gov/publicworks/erosion-prevention-and-control.

Milwaukie's waterways—Johnson Creek, Kellogg Creek and Willamette River—support both people and wildlife in numerous ways. Since the Clean Water Act, waterways around the country have experienced huge improvements to water quality—the very same water used for drinking and recreation. With erosion control measures in place, the soil can be kept where it belongs and maintain the community's natural beauty.

NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS

HISTORIC MILWAUKIE

Thanks to those who joined in at the big Earth Day event this past April—more than a hundred people showed up! The neighborhood partnered with the Rotary Club, Milwaukie Garden Club, and Twinflower Natives to launch the Pollinator Pathways in downtown Milwaukie with Rep. Mark Gamba cutting the ribbon to open the ceremony. As part of this initiative, the neighborhood has invited individuals and organizations to become pollinator stewards (with neighborhood support) by making a 1-year commitment to adopt a corner bump out, and plant and care for native plants (using no pesticides), until they can thrive on their own. So far, five groups have agreed to become pollinator stewards—Rotary Club, Milwaukie Garden Club, Twinflower Natives, Milwaukie Floral and St. Johns Episcopal Church.

The next meeting is June 10 at 6:30 p.m. at city hall (10501 SE Main St.) where neighbors will discuss the annual picnic slated for September. Please note: the neighborhood will take a break from meetings in July and August.

The Milwaukie Police Department will also have their drone at the picnic to demonstrate its capabilities.

Water Safety

As warm weather approaches, Clackamas Fire District reminds everyone about the importance of practicing safe water habits. Follow these important tips from the American Red Cross to keep safe:

- Swim in designated areas supervised by lifeguards
- Never leave children unattended near water. Don't trust a child's life to another child, and teach children to ask permission to go near the water
- Be cautious around ocean shorelines, rivers, and lakes. Remember that cold temperatures, currents, and underwater hazards are dangerous.
- Be aware of underwater obstructions in low water levels
- When boating, wear a life jacket
- Avoid alcohol use, which impairs judgment, balance and coordination, as well as the body's ability to stay warm
- Install and use barriers around home pools and hot tubs
- Enroll in home pool safety, water safety and CPR/AED courses to learn how to prevent and respond to emergencies
